Tudo sobre a casa (Portuguese Edition) Anatxu Zabalbeascoa

Anatxu Zabalbeascoa narra neste livro uma crônica amena e apaixonante dos fatos que determinaram a evolução da casa e dos nossos hábitos domésticos. Arquitetura, tecnologia e vida privada confluem nessa obra transdisciplinar que, partindo de uma análise social e antropológica, nos conta a história de seis espaços ? banheiro, cozinha, dormitório, jardim, sala, sala de jantar ? para revelar-nos a evolução do nosso próprio cotidiano. Por suas páginas, desfilam não apenas Le Corbusier e Chippendale, o estilo império e os jardins suspensos da Babilônia, mas também inventores e decoradores, políticos e monarcas, bem como nobres, burgueses e camponeses.

O texto da autora flui ao lado das impressionantes ilustrações de Riki Blanco, minuciosamente criadas para este relato e conseguem captar e transportar o leitor a ambientes passados com precisão excepcional.

Anatxu Zabalbeascoa (Barcelona, 1966), jornalista e historiadora especializada em arquitetura, trabalha como crítica para o jornal El País. Também escreve periodicamente no blog Del tirador a la ciudad e é autora de vários livros sobre arquitetura, entre outros, Las casas del siglo (1998), Vidas construídas (1998) e Minimalismos (2001), todos publicados pela Editora Gustavo Gili.
